
Midwest Peacemakers Conference - August 23

“Nonviolent Transformations at Home and Abroad”

This conference will feature two well-known Davids: David Waas, Manchester College historian emeritus will help us grasp what is happening in Israel and the Middle East, and show how non-violence provides the greatest promise. David Jehnsen, founder of the Institute for Human Rights and Responsibilities, will tell how the nonviolent “Churches Helping Churches” program is helping New Orleans area people get back on their feet.

The conference will again be held in Brick Room of the Brethren Retirement Center, 752 Chestnut St. in Greenville, Ohio, August 23 from 11 am - 4:30 pm. Lively discussion with the speakers should help confirm the importance of Jesus' call to nonviolence. The carry-in lunch always provides for great fellowship, and the worship and singing will surely lift our spirits.
